22 revolver from the police station. The thief falls for a con artist named Shreya (Shilpa Shetty) who pretends to be a high-profile shooter. Shyam takes her with him on the path of robbery and in the process he falls in love with Shreya. The film had the longest production schedule in history, spanning over 4 years. It was initially made in Hindi, but was later dubbed in Kannada, Tamil and Telugu. This was the last release of Shilpa Shetty in a film before she started her Bollywood career. Plot Raj Madhur (Bobby Deol) is a gangster living in Jhansi, who is in love with and wishes to marry Sonal (Shilpa Shetty). He has a friend named Bablu (Paresh Rawal), who is a computer professional. Raj and Bablu begin to work for a gang called 'Thakur's gang' who operate in the district of Jhansi and handle the operations of smuggling diamonds. The chief of Thakur's gang is none other than one Chor Machaaye Shor (Paresh Rawal), also known as Mr. Thakur, who is determined to take over the diamond smuggling business of the region. The police, under the mentorship of Inspector Jai (Om Puri), begin an anti-mafia operation, which results in the loss of many lives, including that of Sonal's father, Bade Raj (Shagufta Ali), who was killed in the operation. Raj is jailed for the crime, and Bablu flees to Bombay. Many years later, Raj has become a successful and respected gang leader, but his once happy life has been turned upside down by his elder brother, Madhav (Johny Lever), who is a traitor for the Thakur gang and is determined to kill Raj. Madhav is the only family member left alive. Raj and Madhav's relationship is strained; they were once close but now Madhav treats Raj like a stranger. Raj is a gangster but he has his own principles and love for his brother, so he asks for Madhav's forgiveness. Later, Madhav dies, and the brothers' relationship changes once again. Madhav's wife, Kiran (Shilpa Shetty) is a con artist and an accomplice of Chor Machaaye Shor. 82157476af
